

PARTNERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Sustainable Farming SIG

Tuesday 14 July 2026

Rothamsted Research, Harpenden

We are excited to invite exhibitors and sponsors to join us in supporting our upcoming Sustainable Farming Special Interest Group (SIG). This is a fantastic opportunity to connect with RES members, showcase your brand, and engage with an audience of approx. 60 delegates.

We are offering opportunities for Exhibitors and a Headline Sponsor, but are also happy to discuss bespoke packages tailored to your specific goals and needs.

ABOUT US

The Royal Entomological Society (RES) is a global charity devoted to the understanding and development of insect science. We support international collaboration, research and publication and aim to show every person how remarkable and valuable insects are!

The need to make agriculture more sustainable is increasingly being recognised, Entomologists know that insects are an important part of farmland biodiversity and provide many essential environmental services. Progress towards sustainability can be achieved through systems of management that minimise negative side-effects whilst maximising positive side-effects. Understanding and balancing the potential benefits and risks of existing and new agricultural technologies play an important part in this context.

This SIG will aim to increase exchange of information on entomology-related aspects of these complex issues and to raise the profile of insects as an important component of farmland biodiversity.

EVENT DETAILS

To celebrate the new expanded Sustainable Farming SIG, this event brings together sustainable agriculture and forestry with pollination and parasitoids, under the theme 'co-benefits and trade-offs'.

Join us to explore the different needs of insects in a productive landscape, and how to apply entomology towards systems that work for both society and nature.
